"Their story has taken 19 years to reach the screen. IT HAS BEEN WORTH THE WAIT. An invaluable record of a kind of rock golden age" - Kenneth Turan, Los Angeles Times

"BREEZY, INTRIGUING, TUNEFUL, JOYOUS STUFF FOR ANYONE. For rock and pop fans, though, IT'S ABSOLUTE CATNIP" - Steve Rebell, Playboy

"A treasure trove of witness-at-creation anecdotes and enduringly potent '60s pop classics. A WELL-NIGH IRRESISTABLE TREAT FOR AFICIONADOS OF MUSIC" - Joe Leydon, Variety

The Wrecking Crew was a group of studio musicians in Los Angeles in the 1960s who played on hits for the Beach Boys, Elvis, Frank Sinatra, Byrds, Nancy Sinatra, Sonny and Cher, Jan & Dean, The Monkees, Gary Lewis and the Playboys, Mamas and Papas, Tijuana Brass, Ricky Nelson, Johnny Rivers and Phil Spector's Wall of Sound. The amount of work that they were involved in was tremendous.

In 1996, guitarist and Wrecking Crew member, Tommy Tedesco was diagnosed with terminal cancer. Tommy's son and film maker, Denny Tedesco, quickly set forth to tell the story of his father and the other musicians known as the Wrecking Crew. That was the beginning of Denny's 19-year odyssey to share 'The Wrecking Crew' movie with the world.
